

PRESS RELEASE

Non-complition of the Proposed Sale of the Testing Business to Synanto

Casablanca, February 11th, 2026 - HPS (CSE: HPS), a leading global provider of payment software and solutions, announces that the proposed sale of its Testing business to Synanto Services SAS, initially announced in September 2025, will not proceed.

Following the expiry of the contractually agreed period, certain conditions precedent required to complete the transaction could not be fulfilled. As a result, the sale agreement entered into between the parties has lapsed.

HPS would like to emphasize that this situation does not affect the continuity of the Testing business, the quality of services delivered to clients, or the Group's commitment to its employees. In line with its AccelR8 strategy, HPS remains determined to focus its resources and investments on its core business—payment solutions. In this context, the Group will continue to actively explore various future options and opportunities that could provide renewed momentum to the Testing business, in the best interest of its clients and the employees concerned.

HPS will keep the market informed of any significant developments relating to this scope, in accordance with its financial communication obligations.
